CASE #	ORIGINATION DATE	REQUESTER NAME	REQUEST SUBJECT	DISPOSITION
62227	04-Jul-2010	Michael Levy	Report conveyed to the National Security Council and/or the National Security Advisor and/or to the President, on or after September 7, 2008 at 2:00 am Eastern Time, bearing the following exemplar: Does Russia really want to invite trade sanctions and official boycotts against their goods and services all just to entertain anarchistic and dictatorial regime building in the small corners of the world? A return to the days before paristroika, glasnost and reambrasure of apparatchicks, after all this time spent building relationships and trust? Mockery tends to hide insecurity, is that what the new president wants to project? His insecurity hidden behind a thin screen or mockery of the west not wanting to destroy its relationship with Russia by responding to military aggression against an ally by newly unwise steps taken by a new, extremely insecure regime, so insecure it has to instigate breakaway conflicts against its neighbors? That would say it more firmly to Medvedev and Putin than previous language given Mr. Cheney.	Improper FOIA Request
62229	04-Jul-2010	Michael Levy	Report conveyed to the National Security Council and/or the National Security Advisor and/or to the President, on or after August 29, 2009 at 1:00 am Eastern Time, bearing the following exemplar: I understand your and Treasury's concern over the rising Federal Deficit and the Budget deficit. However, I think if you recovered $200 Billion from TARP in paybacks, you should reapply the return to buying toxic assets and rehabbing them as suggested previously. You can do it on credit swaps contracts of the government's own making, those certificates of credit (TCredits, or Treasury Credits which would be asset backed securities representing the equity value or earnings value or both in the mortgages you buy at a discount off the banks). We are still in a hole here and the perception that the unemployment is going to stop is incorrect and that the recovery is going to take place is also incorrect. Not until you start unburdening the banks and they loosen up credit requirements. Even if they have started to lend again, it is at a very frightened pace and they are being extremely reluctant to lend to the average businessman and are only lending to the very high profile borrowers, which is worsening the situation for the average to lower profile borrowers. Mr. President, we need a law that requires if one Credit Bureau takes off incorrect entries from its report, that all three do likewise. 'Equal Credit Reporting Act' requiring corrections be made by all three bureaus after one does so. Otherwise the Credit Reporting companies just feed off each others errors in a merry go round fashion. This 'three as one' program while a start, should lock the credit bureaus into honoring each others repairs. Otherwise, one credit bureau with errors can hold up a person's credit to such a degree that a consumer may never clear his record of errors. Stay well, enjoy your vacation, please consider using that $200 billion payback to clear the toxic assets by issuing TCs as indicated, you won't regret it, as it will accelerate recovery greatly. Social Security's benefits section should become a Federally owned Bank, btw. That would save it. More later.	Improper FOIA Request

62230	04-Jul-2010	Michael Levy	Report conveyed to the National Security Council and/or the National Security Advisor and/or to the President, on or after February 12, 2008 at 2:16 am Eastern Time, bearing the following examplars: Highly charged situation, the CIA is behind the ball, not ahead of it. They need to be well ahead of the ball. I'd ask Mike to put them into a full court press on the Pakistanis ISI and the infielders from other terror groups, on info in advance on Timor, perhaps a back channel can be opened inside to an empathetic ear inside the ISI who is willing to exchange, believing that Musharraf and the Al Qaeda program and ISI are ultimately doomed. I'd make E-Timor a significant exemplary issue, and frankly, since the Dems are not fully live on it, I'd also make it a Presidential issue. The aussies arrived today to help with the emergency. I'd send someone very publicly to the President of E-Timor's bed side, and I'd make it a center of the road issue on "why the war on terrorism is so critical". I'd augment his security forces and supply the Australians bomb resistance fighting vehicles, our best bomb tech from material supply, full body armor sets, hummers, and any weapons they can use. I'd also take the time to meet with the Germans and make a deal with them on Afghanistan directly for additional troops. Note they are taking losses on T-Mobile right now from AT&T. Someone should remind the German government who sat there and drew fire for them for 50 years with the onset of the Cold War, who refinanced them, and helped them rebuild after WWII, and kept the CCCP from getting ultimate full control and incorporating Germany into Russia. They haven't been very grateful to us for all that we did. And they did help Saddam rearm. That was a punch in the face. Someone needs remind them of their debt.	Improper FOIA Request

63011	27-Sep-2010	Mark Fournier	Any/all NSA financial statistical data (or other GAO-bound documentation) on the financial expenditures related to projects/cases of SIGINT of unknown origin. Please do not confuse this request to be one with a narrow constraint towards UFO (flying objects). While I expect unknown signal intelligence research to yield something of this nature, I am simply concerned with the costs and financial transactions related to the mission of SIGINT. If it helps, I am more specifically interested in cases where NSA/CSS SIGINT was/has been unable to produce results for classification, or cases where NSA/CSS was bound to provide research or investigative services to identify a signal source at the request of another agency (outcome irrelevant). I would like to limit the results to four specific time periods: 1951-1955; 1971-1975; 2001-2005; 2009-Present.	(b)(6) Non - Responsive
