115977	3/17/2023	Looking for records on the Echelon System's syntax and technical operating manuals related to electronic programming systems of that platform. Most interested in how the language employed in writing machine code is structured for signal processing. Have read the Air Force ATLAS syntax, language and guidance manuals; thought this would be a logical next step. Primarily interested in the study of information systems for synaptic character recognition of indirect sentient signal processing and sensory I/O topology between the major electronic communication systems, users of them, there subjects and primary objectives. Started studying programming to make a program for daughter to play barbies and that made sense as a logical starting point since it monitors the communications systems globally which presume includes natural language and human interface devices for terminal input across platform transmissions. Studying information and operating system programming as a hobby and would prefer not to reinvent the wheel. Should this information not be available, requesting a directory of contacts by department so can begin to narrow in on the appropriate language and subject to request. 115984	3/20/2023	Requesting documents under the Freedom of Information Act. Please, send in electronic form (e-mail) the records in your possession about the following topic: The NSA is known to monitor all communications relating to space programs. Information on the event for which ask for records is very scarce. During the APPOLO 15 mission, on August 3, 1971 at 11. am (other sources indicate 11.15 am) there was a total blackout in communications with Mission Control and the American astronaut Alfred Warden listened to a repeated message composed by a mysterious but precise series of incomprehensible words (twenty in all) pronounced in an unknown language and not of a terrestrial source. The words were spoken by a human voice ranging from low to high pitched , at times shrill and even hoarse, and were recorded by Mission Control. Before the broadcast was "blinded" to prevent it from being heard by "non-experts", only 8 out of 20 words were known: "MARA RABBI ALLARDI DINI ENDAVOUR ESA COUNS ALIM" As far as know, no one has been able to interpret them Date Range: From August 3 1971 to August 31 1971	Neither Confirm Nor Deny
