117514	11/16/2023	Communications weapons program involving the United States of America government organizations and independent intelligence agency, i.e., Central Intelligence Agency : Program revolves around a singular person on the ground and Open Source Targeters in Langley, Virginia and *other disclosed agency buildings with agents holding various positions. The operators in the Eastern seaboard have set up a satellite link connected to the persons located in the western United States. Using this link they are able to communicate with a ground force without visible equipment on the ground forces person. This program has been primarily focused on a subject in Deschutes County Oregon having started first in Ontario, Oregon. One of the primary means of communication can be easily heard by the ground person (and quite possibly other regular citizens located near the ground agent) through his or her surroundings via the space they are occupying inside a building or the sky when moving about outside. Think of a hidden speaker system feeding words to the space around you. You can hear this in different areas and different directions inside and outside. In the closer vicinity of the ground person can hear what is nicknamed the "second voice" . This is more prominent when groups of people are speaking out loud but can be heard when one person is speaking. When the decibel level of the group or individual speaking amplifies the ability to hear the second voice greatens and vice versa. Due to the connection of satellite focal points trained on ones brain (in this case, the ground person) the ability to communicate is fed both from and to the two parties, i.e., the ground force and tech operator(s). They are able to communicate with each other, gathering/feeding intel and engage in general, more formal talking. One of the best and main points regarding the ground operative is his/her ability to speak without talking out loud or opening their lips. They speak to the ground person using	Not Agency Record
