IN REPLY REFER TO

31 May 1951

Lt. Colonel Philip G. Evans, USAF
Director of Security
Hq., USAF Security Service
Brooks Air Force Base, Texas

Dear Phil:

Receipt of your letter of 16 May 1951, with its enclosure, is acknowledged.

I have looked Cecil over and think it excellent.

Your invitation to be a contributor to Cecil is appreciated and as soon as I can find the time to prepare something useful I will send it along. I'll add that the ASA Review has been after me for some time to write a piece for that journal, but I've been so pressed for time that its not been possible to do so yet.

In this connection I'm reminded that so far there's been little done by way of editing the talk I gave at the Conference. But it's on my agenda and I'll get to it soon. I hope.

By the way, some of the photographs taken during the Conference came out very well. Could I have for my personal record, a copy of the one of me on the pulpit, addressing the flock?

With very best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Mr. William Friedman
Technical Consultant
Director of Armed Forces Security Agency
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mr. Friedman:

We are trying to expand and improve our monthly Communications Security Information Letter (CSIL). CSIL's circulation is world-wide to all United States Air Force staff and communications personnel authorized to handle confidential material. We attempt to inform these people of trends, new developments and procedural changes in the communications security field, and to encourage them in applying security rules to their own jobs.

In order to get all these people to read CSIL we emphasize cartoons and avoid "government prose." CSIL is informal, non-directive and, we hope, readable.

If you can find time to send us an article or material for CSIL articles, we shall be most appreciative. Doubtless, you have a wealth of worthwhile information in your files and you may wish to publicize some important security needs.

The May issue of CSIL is inclosed.

Yours very truly,

PHILIP G. EVANS
Lt. Col., USAF
Director of Security
