Part 2.<sup>a</sup>

We cannot decide whether a letter or machine code is being used between the Russian High Command and the armies in the field. In general the use of codes is very (secret?) and very few have been captured. There is no hope of getting hold of a secret communications manual. (Two lines missing.) (Word limit 10,000, 1941 edition) has been taken and is being studied to see whether or not it is different from the one now in use. If you have need of this refer secretly to SAKURAI.

a - Part 1 available, not yet solved.
